

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A suspension includes a multilayered plate member formed by at least three layers laminated together. Modulus of elasticity of neighbor layers of the at least three layers are different from each other. Both side edges of only a part of the layers of the multilayered plate member within a stiffness-required region are bent to form ribs.